BANKS GROWING RESTLESS.

THEY WANT TO KNOW THE TREASURY POLICY.

UNFORTUNATE EFFECT OF THE BLAND SEIGN IORAGE CERTIFICATE BILL-HOW SECRE-

It is probable that at an early date the Secretary of the Treasury will be forced to "show his hand" with regard to the financial policy of the Administration or to lose the support which the age. Weights and Measures of the House of assignee may be able to take possession of, is less Representatives had voted favorably to report the Bland bill for the issue of over $55,000,000 silver certificates based on what is called the "seigniorage" on the sliver buillon now in the Treasury vaults has brought many bankers to the conclusion that an issue must be joined affecting the relations of the banks with the Treasury Department. The bank presidents are loath to speak able to prevent a more serious depletion of the gold balance and the total cash balance of the Treasury than has already occurred. On No. AN ADVANCE IN STOCKS ON REPORTS FROM vember 7 (last Election Day) Mr. Carlisle visited this city, and Conrad N. Jordan, Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New-York, gave a dinner at Delmonico's to several prominent bank presidents with a view to bringing them into a tter understanding with the Secretary, Mr. Carlisle did not attend the dinner, but he came tation. It is understood that on this occasion Mr. Carlisle agreed that in return for the assistance "seigniorage" on the silver bullion holdings. So far as anything unofficial or personal can go, Mr. the issue of a temporary loan banking community when, in his report to Congress on December 20, Mr. Carlisle suggested the utilization of the "seigmiorage" and announced that he had ordered the mints to be prepared for coining the sliver buillion, was fully described by The Tribune at that time. The Bland proposition, now to be launched in Congress, for an immediate issue of certificates based upon this "seigmiorage" yet unavailable, is regarded by bankers as only a step further in line with the Congress. Secretary's suggestions to Congress.

But the Europe at the European demand might develop soon. But the Europe at the Europe abroad in the winter, and in the spring there is an inevitable movement of this nature. The New-York banks feel that they are not bound to meet the normal demand this year unless confidence is given in the character of the financial policy of the Administration, so sadly shattered by the course of Secretary Carlisle in the last year, and by the indications of a new outbreak of silver inflation in Congress, which has gone unchecked, even if it may not be said to be encouraged, by the Secretary of the Treasury. An issue of Government bonds is strongly favored by the financial community here, not mirely because it would restore confidence in the solvency of the Treasury, but because by hardening rates for money it might tend to offset the attraction of capital to Europe, where low interest rates now prevail.

There were some preminent bankers who were reluctant to speak publicly on the action of the House Committee on Coinage yesterday. Motives of policy may have dictated this silence, J. Edward Simmons, president of the Faurth National Bank, said: "I believe this to be a very unwise measure. The use of the silver buillion seigniorage in the form of certificates is a most insidious and dangerous kind of inflation. The issue of these certificates might afford temporary relief for the Treasury's needs and perhaps the country is big enough to absorb some $50,900,000 more of paper money. But it is not the size of the group of five mines in the inits of this city, is to be closed down and the pumps are to be pulled out, allowing the working to fit is act, is to be closed down and the pumps are to be pulled out, allowing the working to fit is a contract. In the end such a measure would aggravate the situation and if it represents the spirit and motive of the Administration it can only lead to future trouble."

Another bank president said: "I should regard the coinage of the seigniorage as a misappropriation of collateral and therefore a crime. Mr. Carlisle distinctly promised that he would not coin the seigniorage and he has kept the letter of the promise, but he has told Congress in his report that he is ready to coin it and has practically recommended that he be authorized to do so, and a bill has been introduced in the House for that purpose. I think there is no doubt, therefore, that if any gold is needed for export it will have to come out of the United States Treasury and not out of the banks." of the promise, but he has told Congress in his report that he is ready to coin it and has practically recommended that he be authorized to do so, and a bill has been introduced in the House for that purpose. cluded in the consolidation or corporation known as the Penokee and Gogebic Mining Company are the Colby, Palms, Comet and Superior Mining companies, and are in what is known as the Gogebic range. The capital of these consolidated companies is 4,000,00. They have been placed in the hands of receivers, who are C. F. Hand, of this city, and Howard Morris, of Milwankee, officers of the company, and their appointment is a friendly one, in the interests of the company. There is little of the company's paper out. The mines have been shut down since last May, because there was no demand for the ores. We have a large stock of ore on hand, but cannot sell it on account of the inactivity of business."

The principal stockholders of the Penokee and Gogebic Mining Company are Charles L. Colby, Colgate Hoyt, F. A. Abbott, of this city; Joseph L. Colby, of Cleveland, and E. H. Abbott, of Milwaukee.
